AASD Women’s History Month Presentation and Book Signing

The Department of African American Studies, in collaboration with the Women’s Studies Department, American Studies Department, and Nyumburu Cultural Center, presents a talk by

Dr. Bettye Collier-Thomas

Dr. Collier-Thomas is a professor of history at Temple University and is the author of Jesus, Jobs, and Justice: African American Women and Religion. This book takes a historical approach to the subject of women, religion, and politics, analyzing religious, class, and gender dynamics in the black community and racial dynamics in the larger society. Jesus, Jobs, and Justice demonstrates how black women have woven their faith into their daily experiences and illustrates their centrality to the development of African American religion, politics, and public culture.

Date: Thursday, March 25th, 2010
Location: Multi-purpose room, Nyumburu Cultural Center
University of Maryland, College Park
Time: 4:30 pm - 6:30 pm
For additional information: 301-405-1158