Spotlight: Last Social Justice Hangout of the Semester Wednesday, April 5

We have been gathering on the first Wednesday of every month this semester for informal conversations about social justice issues. In February we discussed the children's books that first introduced us to social justice issues and in March explored together the uses of humor in social justice organizing. Our last Social Justice Hangout of the semester is Wednesday, April 5. The theme for this is suggested by India Hamilton, WMST Certificate student and Multiplatform Journalism major. We'll gather on Wednesday, April 5, to think about media--television and web series. Do join us!

(The first Wednesday in May will be WMST/LGBT Undergraduate Research Day. More to come on that.)

Social Justice Hangout

Take a pause and join us on the first Wednesday of every month. Whether you'd like to check in, share, speak, support, be supported, the Social Justice Hangout will be a space to have fun and engage in self-care.

Everyone is welcome. Lunch will be provided.

Our April 5 hangout will be centered on media. Is there a television show or web series you find on point on social justice? That has inspired your activism? Helped you talk about issues with family and friends? Got you rethinking? *

Bring a clip or just a story to share. Bring your appetite and hangout for as much time as you can. Invite a friend to join in.

We look forward to hanging out with you.

Wednesday, April 5th, 11:45am-1:30pm

(Drop in for as much time as you can)

Constructive Feminism: Women's Spaces and Women's Rights in the American City: Daphne Spain

Wednesday, April 5

Dr. Daphne Spain is the James M. Page Professor in the Department of Urban and Environmental Planning at the University of Virginia's School of Architecture. Her book, Constructive Feminism, explores the spatial consequences of 1970s Second Wave feminism. Like the civil rights movement, the women's movement generated both deliberate and unintended urban spaces. Feminist activists in Boston and Los Angeles created women's centers, bookstores, health clinics, and domestic violence shelters in pursuit of their rights, often reshaping existing spaces for greater autonomy. Once the majority of women worked outside the home, their exit from domestic care-taking duties increased demand for fast food, childcare facilities, day services for the elderly and hospices. These unintentional spaces now shape the urban landscape in ways few feminists could have anticipated. Sponsored by School of Architecture, Planning, and Preservation. For more information, call 301-405-8000.

Opera Resonates: Gender Bending on the Opera Stage

Sunday, April 9

Women play men regularly in opera. For centuries, higher voices were equated with nobility, purity and even virility. What does this say about attitudes toward gender and the transgendered in ages past? What is our experience today in watching women play romantic male leads and heroes? Sociology, psychology, and politics collide in music.

Tainted Witness: Why We Doubt What Women Say About Their Lives:
A Conversation with Leigh Gilmore

Tuesday, April 11

Leigh Gilmore is Distinguished Visiting Professor of Women's and Gender Studies at Wellesley College and author of Tainted Witness: Why We Doubt What Women Say About Their Lives. In this conversation with Scholars Executive Director Marilee Lindemann, Gilmore will talk about her book and offer some reflections on the recent election, fake news, Hillary Clinton, and why doubting women matters to all of us.

This is a College Park Scholars Power Event.

It is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served, and questions from audience will be welcomed.

LOCATION: 1205 Cambridge Community Center

TIME : Tuesday, April 11, 3:30-4:45 p.m

Be Steadwell, Filmmaker, Singer-Songwriter

Wednesday, April 12

Be Steadwell is a singer-songwriter and filmmaker who uses her roots in jazz, a cappella, and folk music to present a blend which she calls "queer pop." In her performances she utilizes loop pedal vocal layering and beat boxing to compose her songs on stage. In her film, Vow of Silence, a heartbroken composer takes a vow of silence to win back the heart of her true love. Vow of Silence is a music driven story which places queer women of color at the center of the narrative.

Be Steadwell will screen her film and perform as well as discuss her work in a Q&A with the audience.

Sponsored by the Department of Women's Studies. For more information, contact Professor Jessica Vooris at jvooris@umd.edu.

Laura Nichols Award

Deadline April 26

From her arrival at the University of Maryland in 1987 to her retirement in 2014, Laura Nichols was a key staff member in Women's Studies and an important advocate for equality and inclusiveness in the university as a whole. The Laura Nichols Award recognizes undergraduate students who exemplify her commitment to feminist principles and social change through their scholarship, service, activism, and/or creative endeavor. Women's Studies majors and certificates, Black Women's Studies minors, and LGBT Studies certificates and minors are all eligible.

Applications may be for activist, service, or creative projects that reflect a commitment to social change and the values of equality, inclusion, and justice. Applications may be for work done on-campus or in the wider community. In some instances awards may be given to support a student research project if it fulfills the goals of the Laura Nichols Award. Students may directly apply or nominations for the Laura Nichols Award may be forwarded by any member of the University community. We especially encourage students to nominate other students whose work they see as especially worthy.

For this inaugural award, applications will be accepted for projects completed within the last 1 year, for ongoing projects, or for projects to be undertaken sometime within the next six months.

Applications/nominations will be accepted for work done by a single student or for a group of students working together in an activist/service/creative endeavor. In the instance that the nomination is for a group of students, the majority must be officially enrolled in one of the departments programs: Women's Studies major or certificate, Black Women's Studies minor, LGBT Studies certificate or minor.

Applicants must be in good academic standing at the time of the application and should submit:

- A 300-500 word statement describing the academic, service, activist, or creative project for which the nomination is being made and, especially, noting the ways in which this project reflects a commitment to social change and the values of equality, inclusion and justice. Please be as specific as possible in describing the work, considering its impact/importance or potential impact/importance, and indicating why it is especially worthy of the Laura Nichols Award.
- If you are proposing a new project: 100-200 word narrative of the applicant's prior work in this area or other qualifications for successfully undertaking the proposed project
- Resume(s)
- Transcript(s) (unofficial is okay)
- Names and contact information for two individuals who could serve as references in relationship to the project

In the case of nominations, the nominator should explain their relation to the student(s) and/or project and should confirm that the student(s) have agreed to be nominated.

The award carries a certificate and $600.

Applications are due Wednesday, April 26, by 4:00 p.m. and should be submitted via email to Professor Elsa Barkley Brown, Director of Undergraduate Studies in the Department of Women's Studies - barkleyb@umd.edu.

The recipient(s) will be announced at the department's Undergraduate Research Day on Wednesday, May 3.

Recipients will be expected to submit to the department a short written report at the completion of their project.

Click here for information on the Fall 2016 recipient of the Laura Nichols Award.

Laura Nichols

As Assistant Director and Academic Advisor, Laura Nichols managed the administrative functions of the department and from 1987 to 2014 advised every Women's Studies major or certificate student; she also advised Black Women's Studies minors. Especially noteworthy was Nichols' work to facilitate students' experiential learning opportunities through internships that had social, economic, educational, and/or political impact on women's lives and that helped students develop the skills to critically analyze their work experiences and practically consider how they might implement feminist models in the workplace. Nichols's dedication to student success-in both their on-campus experiences and beyond-was unwavering, and part of the legacy we hope to preserve through this award.

In addition to the ways that she served the department, Laura Nichols was also an active proponent of equality and inclusiveness in the university as a whole. A longtime member (and 2002-04 chair) of the President's Commission on Women's Issues, Nichols also served on the campus Sexual Assault and Relationship Violence Committee. Throughout 2004 and 2005 she organized surveys and focus groups culminating in a co-authored Center for Leadership and Organizational Change report on campus climate for lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender faculty and staff. For this work, she was awarded the 2005 Champion of Our Community award by the LGBT Staff and Faculty Association. Beginning in the late 1990s, Nichols served as a member of the Peer Consulting Network for the Center for Leadership and Organizational Change and today continues in that capacity. A serious Terp, Laura and her four children all attended the University of Maryland.

Federal/Global Fellows Program

Think a career in government and public service is only for government and politics majors? Think again! Federal agencies, nonprofits, think tanks, and policy-related organizations are interested in your strong arts and humanities academic skills as they confront the pressing issues of today. The Global Fellows and Federal Fellows Programs offer you a chance to take your skills out of the classroom and apply them in the real world. Apply today! Earn Scholarship in Practice credit and a Fellows Program notation on your transcript!

Both programs combine a fall seminar in an issue area with a spring internship in Washington D.C. Some possible concentrations include: Responses to Global Challenges, Energy and Environment, and U.S. Diplomacy and Policymaking. Past internship locations include: Congressional offices, federal agencies, NGOs, non-profits-- you name it! Activities include trips to Capitol Hill and federal agencies, professional development workshops, and conversations with policymakers.

For details regarding the application requirements, go to <http://federalfellows.umd.edu> and/or <http://globalfellowscdc.umd.edu> or contact the program office: 2407 Marie Mount Hall, 301-314-0261.

First wave of applications will be reviewed on April 7. Rolling admissions thereafter.

National Center for Transgender Equality (NCTE) Spring and Summer Internships

The National Center for Transgender Equality is still looking for interns for the current Spring semester! Also, taking applications for summer internships.

Trans people are under attack and NCTE is fighting back! The organization is looking for smart, dynamic undergrads interested in advancing transgender equality and ready to help out. At present, NCTE is recruiting interns with interest and/or experience in policy, communications, lobbying, or organizing. NCTE is interested in spring interns who are available to start as soon as possible and can commit 10-15 hours a week; end dates are flexible. Summer internships are 40 hours a week. Academic year internships are unpaid; summer interns receive a stipend that should cover living expenses in DC.

Interns will gain exposure to various areas of the organization, and may be asked to work in support of:

- Federal and/or state policy priorities;
- Communications and development; or
- Organizing/lobbying

To Apply: Email a cover letter, resume, and 1 - 5 page writing sample to apply@transequality.org with the subject line "Spring Intern" or "Summer Intern."

The cover letter should indicate the applicant's available dates and whether the applicant is most interested in NCTE's policy, communications, or organizing efforts.

More information about the internship is available here:

<http://www.transequality.org/about/jobs/undergraduate-or-graduate-intern-including-msw-placements>

Professional Etiquette Dinner

As a student, are you prepared to put your best foot forward when you sit down with an employer at the dinner table? Would you like more information on how to best navigate using the forks, knives, spoons, plates, and glasses placed in front of you, without embarrassment? If so, this event is for you!

Employers often observe you during meals and social situations to see how you interact with others. This dining event is designed for you to learn and practice good table manners, helping you to be successful in your job and internship search and as a new professional.

Come participate in this facilitated etiquette dinner, guaranteed to provide the guidance you need. Ms. Lauren Scott, a human resource specialist with the Department of Defense, has conducted numerous etiquette dining sessions, and will be the hostess for the evening.

The event is free, but space is limited. Please Note: If you register and do not attend, your student account will be charged a $25 fee. Additionally, access to your Careers4Terps account may be restricted.

Description: Vital Voices Global Partnership invests in women leaders who improve the world. Founded by former U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton, and guided by the belief that women are essential to progress in their communities, partnering with leaders from more than 140 countries who advance economic opportunity, increase political and public leadership, and end violence against women.

Vital Voices seeks spring interns to support the execution of the VV GROW Fellowship, a highly competitive one-year accelerator program for women owners of small- and medium-sized businesses, and the VV GROW Mentoring program, a six-month mentoring program that pairs women owners of small- and medium-sized businesses with corporate executive mentors. The Economic Empowerment and Entrepreneurship Interns will work closely with program staff from January to May 2016. The position is based in Washington, D.C. and is unpaid. The internships require a minimum of 30 hours per week commitment. Interns will have the opportunity to learn about program development, pressing global women's issues, and trends in regional and international women's advocacy. Interns are an integral part of the team and will be able to perform substantive work. Economic Empowerment Program Staff will work with interns to develop their professional skills and knowledge. As a Communications Intern, you would be responsible for supporting the execution of marketing and communications strategy including:

- Writing blogs, articles and success stories
- Managing social media platforms (Facebook and Twitter)
- Interviewing program participants
- Monitoring and managing internal communication databases
- Developing promotional materials for programs
- Graphic design

Interns may also be asked to provide administrative support, helping to create and update program and project management tools.

To apply: Send letter of interest, resume including weekly availability and expected start and end date, a writing sample of no more than 3 pages and two references with contact information to vitalvoices.economicempowerment@vitalnetwork.org. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis. Position open until filled.

Use "Fall Economic Empowerment and Entrepreneurship Communications Internship_FirstName_LastName" as the subject of your email. Only complete applications will be reviewed. No phone calls please.
