Drawn to Purpose: American Women Illustrators and Cartoonists
Monday through Saturday
Drawn to Purpose features original works by women cartoonists and illustrators produced from the late 1800s to the present. Though the fields of cartooning and illustration were long dominated by men, many women have created art intended for reproduction and wide dissemination in newspapers, periodicals, and books. Women pursuing careers in the visual arts often encountered limitations in training, permitted subject matter, and suitable work environments. This exhibit highlights the work of women in these fields. Their work addresses such themes as evolving ideas of feminine beauty, new opportunities for women in society, changes in gender relations and issues of human welfare. The exhibit features 70 works by 43 artists and is organized into seven sections: Themes and Genres; Golden Age Illustrators; Early Comics; New Voices, New Narratives; Editorial Illustrators; Magazine Covers and Cartoons; and Political Cartoonists.

LOCATION: Graphic Arts Galleries, Library of Congress Thomas Jefferson Building, 10 First St. S.E., Washington, DC.
TIME: Monday through Saturday, 8:30 am - 4:30 pm
Free and open to the public. Tickets are not needed.

Academic Enrichment Grants for Women's Studies Majors

Deadline: April 20, 2018

Need research funds? Help with travel or registration fees to participate in an academic or leadership conference or workshop?

Women's Studies Majors are eligible to apply for Academic Enrichment Grants to fund research, participation in academic or leadership conferences and workshops, or other activities that will enhance your education in women's, gender, and/or sexuality studies.

Application deadline is April 20, 2018 for projects during the March 2018 - September 2018 time period. Students submitting applications by April 20 will be notified by May 1 if their project will be funded.

To apply, send a 250-500 word statement about the project/conference/workshop/organizing meeting, etc. for which you are requesting funding and indicate how you see this relating to your work in Women's Studies. Also, submit a resume, budget, the name of one professor who can serve as a recommender, and, if applicable, a list of any other sources from which you are requesting funding for this same project. If applying for an activity that occurred prior to the application deadline, please submit copies of receipts to accompany your budget.

Applications submitted after the April 20 deadline will be considered if there are any remaining Academic Enrichment funds for the semester.

For questions about these grants or assistance with developing your proposal, please talk with Professor Elsa Barkley Brown, Director of Undergraduate Studies - barkleyb@umd.edu

Apply for Pride Alliance Executive Board

Deadline: April 23
Are you passionate about advocating for the LGBTQ+ community? Consider applying for a position on next year's Pride Alliance Executive Board! This is an excellent opportunity to strengthen your professional skills while working towards greater inclusivity of LGBTQ+ people on UMD's campus.

Please apply at: https://go.umd.edu/PAExec2018

Laura Nichols Award
Deadline: April 27, 2018

From her arrival at the University of Maryland in 1987 to her retirement in 2014, Laura Nichols was a key staff member in Women's Studies and an important advocate for equality and inclusiveness in the university as a whole. The Laura Nichols Award recognizes undergraduate students who exemplify her commitment to feminist principles and social change through their scholarship, service, activism, and/or creative endeavor. Women's Studies majors and certificates, Black Women's Studies minors, and LGBT Studies certificates and minors are all eligible.

Applications may be for activist, service, or creative projects that reflect a commitment to social change and the values of equality, inclusion, and justice. Applications may be for work done on-campus or in the wider community. In some instances awards may be given to support a student research project if it fulfills the goals of the Laura Nichols Award. Students may directly apply or nominations for the Laura Nichols Award may be forwarded by any member of the University community. We especially encourage students to nominate other students whose work they see as especially worthy.

Applications will be accepted for projects completed within the last 1 year, for ongoing projects, or for projects to be undertaken sometime within the next six months.

Applications/nominations will be accepted for work done by a single student or for a group of students working together in an activist/service/creative endeavor. In the instance that the nomination is for a group of students, the majority must be officially enrolled in one of the departments programs: Women's Studies major or certificate, Black Women's Studies minor, LGBT Studies certificate or minor.

Applicants must be in good academic standing at the time of the application and should submit:

- A 300-500 word statement describing the academic, service, activist, or creative project for which the nomination is being made and, especially, noting the ways in which this project reflects a commitment to social change and the values of equality, inclusion and justice. Please be as specific as possible in describing the work, considering its impact/importance or potential impact/importance, and indicating why it is especially worthy of the Laura Nichols Award.
- If you are proposing a new project: 100-200 word narrative of the applicant's prior work in this area or other qualifications for successfully undertaking the proposed project
- Resume(s)
- Transcript(s) (unofficial is okay)
- Names and contact information for two individuals who could serve as references in relationship to the project

In the case of nominations, the nominator should explain their relation to the student(s) and/or project and should confirm that the student(s) have agreed to be nominated.

The award carries a certificate and $600.

Applications are due Friday, April 27, by 4:00 p.m. and should be submitted via email to Professor Elsa Barkley Brown, Director of Undergraduate Studies in the Department of Women's Studies - barkleyb@umd.edu.
The recipient will be announced at the department's Undergraduate Research Day on Wednesday, May 2.

Recipients will be expected to submit to the department a short written report at the completion of their project.

Past recipients of the Laura Nichols Award:
Tyannis Carter for a project working with 8th grade girls in Baltimore, Maryland
Muhammad Mussadiq for work focused on health resources for sexual minorities, particularly the transgender community, in Pakistan

For questions about this award or assistance with developing your proposal, please talk with Professor Elsa Barkley Brown, Director of Undergraduate Studies - barkleyb@umd.edu

Spotlight: Sheryl Xavier, Undergraduate Teaching Assistant
This semester, I've been an undergraduate TA for Dr. Zambrana's class: Health Inequality and Social Determinants: How Race, Ethnicity, Class and Gender Matter. I've been learning so much through this assistantship, particularly about how teaching women's studies is a really interdisciplinary field. Every week, I take notes on class readings and create lecture notes, which I incorporate into class presentations that Professor Zambrana discusses in class, linking health disparities, policy, and our current social environments. I create short presentations and lead short discussions in class whenever there is time in the curriculum, which really help teach me about the pedagogy involved in teaching sensitive material. I work with Professor Zambrana on my own research project as well, which focuses on US asylum responses to post-Cold War nations in Central America. Under her mentorship, I've developed a research proposal that I will be presenting at Undergraduate Research Day this year. As a Junior Public Health Science and Women's Studies dual-degree candidate, hoping to go into policy fields after graduation, I've definitely noticed an overlap between my interests and this Senior Seminar, and it's been a privilege to work with a great class and great professor to strengthen my skills.

New Nonprofit Leadership and Social Innovation Minor!

Built on hands-on learning, the minor in Nonprofit Leadership and Social Innovation heightens students’ awareness of local, national and global issues and examines different approaches to social impact. Students will study the role of the nonprofit, NGO, and social sector, as well as social innovation, leadership, and the skills required for effective nonprofit management.

The minor is open to all undergrads on campus, regardless of major.

The minor is offered through the School of Public Policy and supported by the Do Good Institute.

For more information about the minor, visit publicpolicy.umd.edu/undergraduate/academics/minors.

Volunteer with The Petey Greene Program
The Petey Greene Program, a nonprofit that recruits, trains, and places volunteers student from UMD in tutoring positions in prisons and jails, is looking for tutors for the Summer and 2018-2019 school year!

MPFA Student Scholarship Award

Deadline: Friday, May 11

The Maryland Parent & Family Association Student Scholarship Award is a one-time award presented each year to undergraduate students in good standing who may be unable to continue their education at the University due to extenuating financial circumstances. Thanks to the generosity of parent and family donors, the scholarship committee will award scholarships of up to $2,000. A minimum of 12 scholarships will be awarded. Awards are made annually in June for the following academic year.

Eligibility for Award

To be eligible for the scholarship award, a student must meet the following criteria:

1. Be a registered, undergraduate degree-seeking student at the University of Maryland, College Park during the semester for which the award is made;
2. Have completed at least 36 credits and be enrolled at the University at the time of application, in addition to the time of financial award;
3. Be a student in good standing with a minimum GPA of 2.5 and no disciplinary record;
4. Have personal or family circumstances that have caused or contributed to a financial burden that may be remedied in whole or in part by the scholarship award;
5. Have at least one semester of study left at the University before receiving a degree;
6. Be able to apply the full amount of the award to tuition, living expenses or textbooks in the semester/academic year for which the scholarship is awarded and as can be disbursed by the Office of Student Financial Aid.

Application Procedure

Applications must be submitted on-line using the link provided below by the published deadline date. Finalists may be invited to meet with the Maryland Parent & Family Association Student Scholarship Award Committee. All applicants must agree to authorize the release of information to verify academic and any disciplinary records. In addition, applicants must agree that portions of the information contained in this application may be shared with the Maryland Parent & Family Association Student Scholarship Award Committee for the purpose of selection of this award.

JD/MA Dual Degree in Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies, University of Albany

Application Deadline: June 1

The JD/MA dual degree is an exciting new program articulated between the University of Albany Department of Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies and Albany Law School. This program allows graduate students to combine their interests in feminist, critical race, and social justice issues with legal studies, leading to professional employment in law, advocacy, nonprofits, non-governmental organizations, and community organizing, to name a few.

Students in the JD/MA dual degree program will fulfill requirements for both degrees, which may be completed in four years or less. They will spend their first year at Albany Law School and their second year in the M.A. program. The arrangement of the remaining two years is flexible. Students wishing to enroll in a dual degree program must meet the admissions requirements of each school, including the completion of the LSAT for Albany Law.

Students in dual-degree programs must earn 87 credits to receive the JD degree. A maximum of 12 credits earned in the M.A. program may count toward the 87 required credits. This maximum means that students must earn 75 credits at Albany Law School to obtain both degrees.

The M.A. in WGSS requires a total of 32 credits, including several core courses, a Master's Final Project, and elective courses forming a cohesive cluster. A maximum of 9 credits earned in the J.D. program may count toward the 32 required credits (and may possibly form the cohesive cluster requirement).

Applications for Fall 2018 semester are accepted through June 1, 2018

For more information, click here.

Island Press
Position Type: Off-Campus Part-Time, Post Doc/Fellowship
ID#: 172285
Preferred Class: Sophomore, Junior, Senior, Masters Candidate
Preferred Majors: All Majors
Job Function: Other
Location: Washington, DC
Description: Island Press is accepting applications for a 12-month publishing fellowship, intended to serve as a pathway to a successful career in publishing, environmental communications, non-profit management, or related fields. It is aimed at attracting candidates who otherwise would not have access to publishing and to increase the diversity and inclusivity of the industry. In particular, we seek to involve individuals who have close working or living experiences in communities that are historically under-represented in publishing, including the Black or African-American, American Indian or Alaska Native, Asian or East Asian, and Hispanic or Latino communities. We are committed to building a culturally diverse and pluralistic staff dedicated to the environment and to creating and working in a multicultural environment. This program is open to persons of all races and ethnicities. The fellow will commit to full-time work in the summer and part-time work (15-20 hours per week) in the fall and spring thereafter.

What You Will Do

Gain experience in at least two departments (editorial, publicity, marketing, or production), with exposure to and instruction in the operations of other departments at the press.

Work closely with senior staff in each department and follow specific books through a full publication cycle.

Attend and participate in all relevant publishing meetings as a member of the staff.

We expect that you will learn the basics of acquiring, developing, producing, selling, and marketing books. In editorial, for example, you will gain an understanding of how editors identify authors and books for acquisition, and assist editors in working with authors to develop a manuscript that meets the agreed upon goals of the project. Fellows will also work with other departments-including marketing, design, and production-on behalf of specific book projects, and may take on additional projects to gain a deeper understanding of all areas of publishing.

Qualified applicants will have

A demonstrated interest in fields relevant to the environment, publishing, marketing, and/or communications.

Strong written and verbal communications skills, attention to detail, and a passion for getting things right.

A demonstrated interest in ethnic or cultural diversity, and experience working with diverse and minority communities.

Live within commuting distance of the Island Press offices in Washington, DC.

A basic understanding of MS Office programs, including Word and Excel.

We are flexible regarding the educational background of the candidate, but candidates with at least two years of college or equivalent experience are preferred.

Dates and Compensation

Approximate start and end dates: June 1, 2018 - May 31, 2019

Required hours: 40 hours per week initially, 15 to 20 hours a week during the academic year

Compensation: $15/hour

To Apply

To be considered for the fellowship you must provide the following:

A cover letter addressed to FELLOWSHIP COMMITTEE that answers the following questions in a maximum of three pages:

1. Explain why you are interested in publishing, and which aspects of the publishing process you find most interesting.

2. Tell us about a book or author that has shaped or informed the career path you hope to take.

3. Please describe any previous activities in which you have worked with minorities, women, or members of other underrepresented groups and how you expect those experiences might inform your work at Island Press.

Please also include a résumé and two letters of recommendation.

Applications should be submitted to resumes@islandpress.org with the subject "Island Press Diversity Fellowship." Letter of recommendation may be included in your application or sent separately to the email above. No calls please.

Current and former Island Press employees are not eligible. Applicants must be authorized to work in the United States.

Application Deadline: Monday, April 30, 2018

Compensation: Unpaid Internship
Qualifications: Unspecified
Location: Washington, DC
Description: Help us win a half dozen pro-democracy ballot measures this spring or summer! From overturning Citizens United, to protecting voting rights, to making our elections run on small donations from every day people - don't miss your chance to make a real difference for our democracy while learning organizing and communication skills.
The U.S. Supreme Court's Citizens United ruling has given big corporations and wealthy individuals the ability to spend unlimited amounts of money to influence the outcome of elections. Meanwhile, the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling in Shelby, which gut the Voting Rights Act, has enabled states to pass laws to suppress the vote of people of color, youth and the elderly.
This influx of money into the political process is damaging our democracy by amplifying the voices of nameless and faceless corporations and ultra-wealthy over the voices of "We the People." When it comes to addressing climate change, starting small businesses, passing sensible gun control, addressing educational inequities, reducing student loans, supporting the rights of workers, protecting the rights of LGBTQ people and women, our voices are being drowned out.
For example, a recent Washington Post analysis showed that just 50 families are responsible for almost half of the $600 million raised so far by Super PAC's in the 2016 presidential campaign. And a recent Princeton study shows that "economic elites and organized groups representing business interests have substantial independent impacts on U.S. government policy, while average citizens and mass-based interest groups have little or no independent influence." We must act now.
More and more people are responding to this threat by joining together and calling on public officials to pass a constitutional amendment to overturn Citizens United. Sixteen states, more than 200 members of Congress and nearly 700 local municipalities have called for a constitutional amendment.
Public Citizen is launching the next phase of our dynamic campaign to galvanize public support for a constitutional amendment that would restore our democracy. We are looking for a few amazing democracy interns to join us.
You've heard that corporations have lobbyists. At Public Citizen, we're the people's lobbyists, representing the public in the halls of power. We fight for public health and safety, champion corporate and government accountability, and campaign for fair trade, clean energy, and consumer rights. Now, we're gearing up for one of our biggest campaigns yet.

Application deadline: May 13, 2018

Quote of the Week
“Systemic racism kills. Literally. Daily. This is why I have no space for folks who try to reduce the issue of racism to a mere "culture war," as though racism is just a bad idea held by otherwise decent people and not a brutal system that deprives people of humanity.”
